Andreas Dobler Jul 21 2021 During the course of his anything but linear career, characterized by recurring excursions into other cultural areas including music, film and theater, painting has remained the most constant element in Andreas Doblere activities. In his youth, he was strongly influenced by pop music, psychedelic culture and its ties to the neo-surrealism of the 60s and 70s, as well as science fiction and comic aesthetics. He continues today to mine both media-oriented and popular culture, his taste for fantasy art and culture, ordinary subjects, the phenomena of pop culture and the aesthetic fringes of art having proven an abundant source for his figurative painting. In the 80s Doblere pictures often depicted objects taken from daily life (chest expanders, ski poles, cotton swabs, chocolate, etc.) combined in strange ways and lent a monumental aspect. Later, in the 90s, he used travel brochures to produce paintings and drawings of exotic hotel complexes with their palm trees, swimming pools and fantastically designed apartment buildings--spaces in which various desires are projected, allowing one to escape the day-to-day world. More than sarcastic commentary or simple pop icons, Doblere works translate his penchant for narrative and his interest in music and mise en scene, which he uses moreover as tools in his pictorial work.

Die Skulptur Oct 31 2019 Und Karl, immer wieder Karl. Sie wusste nicht, wie lange sie dort gestanden und auf das Klingelschild gestarrt hatte. In sich eine Empfindung von Einsamkeit und Verlorenheit, die etwas Endgültiges hatte und schon jenseits der Verzweiflung lag. Verzweiflung hieß immer noch an etwas zu hängen, hieß immer noch, wenn auch verzweifelt, zu hoffen. Warin hing noch an Karl, aber das hatte nichts mehr mit Hoffnung zu tun. Nur mit ihr. Es gab nichts, worauf sie hoffte, was sie wollte. Warin trennt sich von Karl, zwei Menschen und eine gescheiterte Beziehung. Eine ganz alltägliche Geschichte. Hinter dem äußeren Anschein jedoch verliert sich die Alltäglichkeit und es entfalten sich die ganz persönlichen Abgründe der Existenz. Der Roman beschreibt in kraftvollen und poetischen Bildern Warins inneren Verzweiflungskampf um ihre große, unmögliche Liebe. Schritt für Schritt unterspülen die Untiefen ihrer Gefühle ihre gesamte Existenz - bis zum Zusammenbruch. Während Warin kämpft, hat ein tragisches Ereignis in Karls Kindheit dessen Schicksal bereits besiegelt, auch wenn es noch über 30 Jahre dauern wird, bis es sich erfüllt. In beinahe akribisch jede Tiefe seiner beiden Protagonisten auslotenden Empfindungsprotokollen entfaltet sich die beklemmende Herrschaft verborgener innerer Wahrheiten über zwei Menschen, die aufeinander getroffen sind, ohne je eine wirkliche Chance gehabt zu haben, sich zu erreichen. Das Grenzland der Gefühle, ihre Ränder, dort, wo sie von Hoffnung in Verzweiflung umschlagen, in die Tiefe drücken, zu Schatten im eigenen Seelenlabyrinth werden, an der Oberfläche verborgen von den Kulissen des ganz normalen, alltäglichen Lebens, auf diesem Territorium entfaltet sich der psychologische Roman Die Skulptur. Liebe und Selbstaufgabe, äußerer Anschein und innere Wahrheit, das folgenreiche Ineinandergreifen von Schicksalen, das Gefängnis eigener Gefühle und die Fesseln der Vergangenheit, schließlich die unentrinnbare, wenn auch nie ganz einlösbare Verantwortung von Menschen füreinander - das sind seine Motive. Ipek Demirtas schildert diese großen Gefühle mit einer Intensität und Klarheit, dass man erschauernd auf den Grund der eigenen Seele blickt. Diese Geschichte lässt einen nicht mehr los.

"Sculpting Simulacra in Medieval Germany, 1250-1380 " Mar 29 2022 Engaging with the imaginative, nonreligious response to Gothic sculpture in German-speaking lands and tracing high and late medieval notions of the 'living statue' and the simulacrum in religious, lay, and travel literature, this study explores the subjective and intuitive potential inherent in thirteenth- and fourteenth-century sculpture. It addresses a range of works, from the oeuvre of the so-called Naumburg Master through Freiburg-im-Breisgau to the imperial art of Vienna and Prague. As living simulacra, the sculptures offer themselves to the imaginative horizons of their viewers as factual presences that substitute for the real. In perceiving Gothic sculpture as a conscious alternative to the sacred imago, the book offers a new understanding of the function, production, and use of three-dimensional images in late medieval Germany. By blurring the boundaries between viewers and works of art, between the imaginary and the real, the sculptures invite the speculations of their viewers and in this way produce an unstable meaning, perpetually mutable and alive. The book constitutes the first art-historical attempt to theorize the idiosyncratic character of German Gothic sculpture - much of which has never been fully documented - and provides the first English-language survey of the historiography of these works.

Eloquent Bodies Apr 17 2021 A radical reassessment of the role of movement, emotion, and the viewing experience in Gothic sculpture Gothic cathedrals in northern Europe dazzle visitors with arrays of sculpted saints, angels, and noble patrons adorning their portals and interiors. In this highly original and erudite volume, Jacqueline E. Jung explores how medieval sculptors used a form of bodily poetics—involving facial expression, gesture, stance, and torsion—to create meanings beyond conventional iconography and to subtly manipulate spatial dynamics, forging connections between the sculptures and beholders. Filled with more than 500 images that capture the suppleness and dynamism of cathedral sculpture, often through multiple angles, Eloquent Bodies demonstrates how viewers confronted and, in turn, were addressed by sculptures at major cathedrals in France and Germany, from Chartres and Reims to Strasbourg, Bamberg, Magdeburg, and Naumburg. Shedding new light on the charismatic and kinetic qualities of Gothic sculpture, this book also illuminates the ways artistic ingenuity and technical skill converged to enliven sacred spaces.

The Last Statues of Antiquity Jan 15 2021 Spanning centuries and the vastness of the Roman Empire, The Last Statues of Antiquity is the first comprehensive survey of Roman honorific statues in the public realm in Late Antiquity. Drawn from a major research project and corresponding online database that collates all the available evidence for the statue habit across the Empire from the late third century AD onwards, the volume examines where, how, and why statues were used, and why these important features of urban life began to decline in number before eventually disappearing around AD 600. Adopting a detailed comparative approach, the collection explores variation between different regions—including North Africa, Asia Minor, and the Near East—as well as individual cities, such as Aphrodisias, Athens, Constantinople, and Rome. A number of thematic chapters also consider the different kinds of honorand, from provincial governors and senators, to women and cultural heroes. Richly illustrated, the volume is the definitive resource for studying the phenomenon of late-antique statues. The collection also incorporates extensive references to the project's database, which is freely accessible online.

Renaissance And Renascences In Western Art Aug 22 2021 Renaissance and Renascences in Western Art spans the period from the 10th to the 15th century, including discussion of the Carolingian renaissance and the 12th century proto-renaissance. Erwin Panofsky posits that there were "renascences" prior to the widely known Renaissance that began in Italy in the 14th century. Whereas earlier renascences can be classified as revivals, the Renaissance was a unique instance that led to a wider cultural transformation.

MORCEAUX Sep 03 2022 Im Zuge der Etablierung europäischer Kunstakademien bildeten sich Aufnahmezeremonien aus, die von den zukünftigen Mitgliedern ein Probestück zum Beweis ihrer Fähigkeiten forderten. Erstmals wird in diesem Band ein vergleichender Blick auf die Aufnahmeverfahren der wichtigsten europäischen Akademien und auf diese faszinierenden, zumeist kleinformigen Werke geworfen, die eine eigene Gattung der Bildhauerei darstellen. An keinen konkreten Verwendungszweck gebunden und unbeeinflusst durch Auftraggeberwünsche, ermöglichten sie ihren Schöpfern nicht nur eine selbstbewusste Zurschaustellung ihrer Fähigkeiten, sondern luden auch zur Gattungsreflexion ein. Die virtuoson Schausstücke führen damit vor Augen, was die Bildhauer der Zeit als Aufgaben und Ziele ihrer Kunst ansahen.

These insightful conversations are complemented by a discussion with the exhibition curators, Brigitte Franzen, Kasper König and Carina Plath.

The Praxiteles Marble Group in Olympia Jul 29 2019 First published in 1937, this book is a critical examination of the Hermes and Dionysos of Praxiteles. Antonsson suggests a hypothesis on the original arrangement of the statuary group in the light of red figure vases, numismatic images, later imitations and reconstructions of varying quality, as well as analyzing the methods and techniques used to create the sculpture. This book will be of value to classicists and anyone with an interest in art history and ancient sculpture.

Die Arktis stirbt. Der Hohe Norden Kanadas und Québecs: ein faszinierender Lebensraum vor extremen Herausforderungen Dec 26 2021 Dies ist kein weiteres Buch über den menschengemachten Klimawandel. Es schaut auf die andere Seite der Medaille: die faszinierenden Facetten einer bedrohten Region, nämlich der Gebiete Kanadas und Québecs im Hohen Norden, die verloren gehen könnten. Welches Konfliktpotential ergibt sich aus neuen Schifffahrtsrouten und Profit versprechenden Rohstoff- und Energievorkommen? Plötzlich ist die Arktis interessant, wird zum Zankapfel zwischen Kanada und anderen Anrainerstaaten, aber auch z.B. der EU und China, mit jeweils eigenen Interessen. Wo bleiben die Rechte der Indigenen, wird die sprichwörtliche Resilienz der Inuit ausreichen, um die Arktis vor dem gierigen Zugriff auf ihren Lebensraum zu bewahren? Der Band vereint die Blickwinkel von Klimaforschung, Politikwissenschaft, Geschichte, Soziologie, Literatur- und Kulturwissenschaft zu so unterschiedlichen Themen wie die kanadische Arktispolitik, die ökonomische und institutionelle Entwicklung in den Territorien, das internationale Gezerre um Souveränitätsansprüche, den historischen Wettlauf um die Nordwestpassage, die Präsenz des Französischen im Hohen Norden, die Inuit-Kunst aus kunstwissenschaftlicher und gesellschaftstheoretischer Sicht und die Darstellung der Inuit in Literatur und Film, einschließlich didaktischer Perspektiven für den Fremdsprachenunterricht. Wenn die Arktis mit ihrer einzigartigen Natur und Kultur nicht sterben soll, so der Sprecher der Inuit, Duane Smith, in einem dringenden Appell an die Weltgemeinschaft, muss die Emission von Treibhausgasen drastisch reduziert werden.

The Sanctuary of Demeter and Kore Jun 19 2021 The fifth part of the Corinth volume dedicated to the Sanctuary of Demeter and Kore publishes the large-scale terracotta sculpture found in the sanctuary. Ranging in date from the late 7th through the 4th century B.C., the sculpture consists of fragments from 132 to as many as 147 statues, from half- to nearly life-size. These are, for the most part, statues of young males, both draped and nude, although females and seated infants appear as well. Several introductory chapters discuss the types represented, the findspots and possible original placement of the sculptures, and the techniques involved in their construction. This volume greatly expands our knowledge of the history of Corinth, broadening our understanding both of cult practices at the site and of the manufacture of terracotta sculpture.

Space, Movement and the Economy in Roman Cities in Italy and Beyond Jul 09 2020 How were space and movement in Roman cities affected by economic life? What can the study of Roman urban landscapes tell us about the nature of the Roman economy? These are the central questions addressed in this volume. While there exist many studies of Roman urban space and of the Roman economy, rarely have the two topics been investigated together in a sustained fashion. In this volume, an international team of archaeologists and historians focuses explicitly on the economics of space and mobility in Roman Imperial cities, in both Italy and the provinces, east and west. Employing many kinds of material and written evidence and a wide range of methodologies, the contributors cast new light both on well-known and on less-explored sites. With their direct focus on the everyday economic uses of urban spaces and the movements through them, the contributors offer a fresh and innovative perspective on the workings of Roman urban economies and on the debates concerning space in the Roman world. This volume will be of interest to archaeologists and historians, both those studying the Greco-Roman world and those focusing on urban economic space in other periods and places as well as to other scholars studying premodern urbanism and urban economies.

Baptism and Resurrection Feb 25 2022 The assumption that Romans 6 and 1 Corinthians 15 reflects a borrowing of ideas from Graeco-Roman mystery initiations is not the likeliest explanation of these texts nor does justice either to recent studies of the mysteries nor to the difficulty in reinterpreting resurrection to refer to a spiritual state which the baptized enjoyed in the present. Spiritual phenomena may have shown early Christians in the Graeco-Roman world that they had life, but not resurrection. Dying with Christ has other roots than the mysteries and the latter should not be interpreted in the light of Paul, but dying and coming to life again is a theme common to a great many rites of passage.

Visual Aggression Aug 10 2020 Why does a society seek out images of violence? What can the consumption of violent imagery teach us about the history of violence and the ways in which it has been represented and understood? Assaf Pinkus considers these questions within the context of what he calls galleries of violence, the torment imagery that flourished in German-speaking regions during the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries.

Exploring these images and the visceral bodily responses that they produced in their viewers, Pinkus argues that the new visual discourse on violence was a watershed in premodern conceptualizations of selfhood. Images of martyrdom in late medieval Germany reveal a strikingly brutal parade of passion: severed heads, split skulls, mutilated organs, extracted fingernails and teeth, and myriad other torments. Stripped from their devotional context and presented simply as brutal acts, these portrayals assailed viewers' bodies and minds so violently that they amounted to what Pinkus describes as "visual aggressions." Addressing contemporary discourses on violence and cruelty, the aesthetics of violence, and the eroticism of the tortured body, Pinkus ties these galleries of violence to larger cultural concerns about the ethics of violence and bodily integrity in the conceptualization of early modern personhood. Innovative and convincing, this study heralds a fundamental shift in the scholarly conversation about premodern violence, moving from a focus on the imitatio Christi and the liturgy of punishment to the notion of violence as a moral problem in an ethical system. Scholars of medieval and early modern art, history, and literature will welcome and engage with Pinkus's research for years to come.

Frontiers of the Roman Empire: The African Frontiers Sep 10 2020 The Roman military remains in North Africa are remarkable in their variety and preservation. They include towers and forts, stretches of defensive lines of stone and earth with ditches broken by gates, and roads, sitting amidst amazing scenery. Readers of this book will enjoy learning more about North Africa's remarkable Roman inheritance.

Roth Time Dec 14 2020 Sculptor, poet, diarist, graphic designer, pioneer artist's book maker, performer, publisher, musician, and, most of all, provocateur, Dieter Roth has long been beloved as an artist's artist. Known for his mistrust of all art institutions and commercial galleries--he once referred to museums as funeral homes--he was also known for his generosity to friends, his collaborative spirit, and for including his family in his art making. Much to the frustration of any gallery that tried to exhibit his work (supposedly none more than once), Roth thumbed his nose at those who valued high purpose and permanence in art. Constantly trying to undo his art education, he would set up systems that discouraged the conventional and the consistent: he drew with both hands at once, preserved the discarded, and reveled in the transitory. Grease stains, mold formations, insect borings, and rotting foodstuffs were just some of the materials used, both out of a fascination with their painterly, textural aspects and for their innate ability to make time visible and play to chance. "More is better," he once said, and more there always was. Roth never stopped working, and he believed that everything could be art, from his sketch pad to the table he sat at, the telephone he talked on, or his friend's kitchen (the kitchen was later sold to a museum). Roth Time: A Dieter Roth Retrospective is published to mark the first major survey exhibition of the artist's work since his death in 1998. Five decades of drawings, graphics, books, paintings, objects, installations, films and video works are represented. The publication offers a window into Roth's creative world, reflecting him and his era. The exhibition is organized by the Schaulager with The Museum of Modern Art, New York and the Museum Ludwig, Cologne.

Sculptures from Roman Syria II Nov 12 2020 For the first time, this publication comprehensively documents and analyzes the Greek and Roman statuary discovered to date in the greater area of Syria. The text portion describes nearly all monuments in detail and classifies them in the context of the history of ancient sculpture. The associated volume of plates documents every item in detail, typically with four photographic views.

Greek Art and Aesthetics in the Fourth Century B.C. Mar 17 2021 Greek Art and Aesthetics in the Fourth Century B.C. analyzes the broad character of art produced during this period, providing in-depth analysis of and commentary on many of its most notable examples of sculpture and painting. Taking into consideration developments in style and subject matter, and elucidating political, religious, and intellectual context, William A. P. Childs argues that Greek art in this era was a natural outgrowth of the high classical period and focused on developing the rudiments of individual expression that became the hallmark of the classical in the fifth century. As Childs shows, in many respects the art of this period corresponds with the philosophical inquiry by Plato and his contemporaries into the nature of art and speaks to the contemporaneous sense of insecurity and renewed religious devotion. Delving into formal and iconographic developments in sculpture and painting, Childs examines how the sensitive, expressive quality of these works seamlessly links the classical and Hellenistic periods, with no appreciable rupture in the continuous exploration of the human condition. Another overarching theme concerns the nature of "style as a concept of expression," an issue that becomes more important given the increasingly multiple styles and functions of fourth-century Greek art. Childs also shows how the color and form of works suggested the unseen and revealed the profound character of individuals and the physical world.

Die Schau des Fremden Mar 05 2020 Im Zeichen postkolonialer Kritik sind Museen der Volks- und Völkerkunde heute eine umstrittene Gattung. Museen werden aufgelöst, Sammlungen umorganisiert, neue Institutionen gegründet. Dieses Buch nimmt die Entwicklungen in Frankreich, Deutschland, Belgien und USA von der Mitte des 19. Jahrhunderts bis zur Gegenwart in den Blick. Es bringt Kuratoren, Kunsthistoriker, Anthropologen, Soziologen und Historiker in einen inter- und multidisziplinären Austausch ueber neue Wege der Visualisierung des Eigenen wie Fremden. In light of postcolonial criticism, the museum of ethnology, anthropology and folklore has become a contested territory. Some museums are being dissolved, collections reorganized, and new institutions created. Focusing on France, Germany, Belgium and the United States in the period between the mid-nineteenth century and the present, this essay collection creates an interdisciplinary dialogue between curators, sociologists, anthropologists, historians and art historians. It sheds new light on the manner in which a modern museology negotiates the problematic heritage of the field and finds new ways to exhibit self and other. Inhalt Vorwort I. Northern Archaeological Textiles May 07 2020 This volume presents the papers from the seventh North-European Symposium for Archaeological Textiles (NESAT), held in Edinburgh in 1999. The themes covered demonstrate a variety of scholarship that will encourage anyone working in this important and stimulating area of archaeology. From the golden robes of a Roman burial, to the fashionable Viking in Denmark, through to the early modern period and more technological aspects of textile-research, these twenty-four papers (five of which are in German) provide a wealth of new information on the study of ancient textiles in northern Europe.

The Grove Encyclopedia of Medieval Art and Architecture Oct 04 2022 The Grove Encyclopedia of Medieval Art and Architecture offers unparalleled coverage of all aspects of art and architecture from Medieval Western Europe, from the 6th century to the early 16th century. Drawing upon the expansive scholarship in the celebrated Grove Dictionary of Art and adding hundreds of new entries on topics not previously covered, as well as fully updated and expanded entries and bibliographies, The Grove Encyclopedia of Medieval Art and Architecture offers students, researchers, and the general public a reliable, up-to-date, and convenient resource covering this field of major importance in the development of Western history and international art and architecture. The Encyclopedia offers scholarly material on Medieval art in intelligent, well-written, and informative articles, each of which is followed by a bibliography to support further research. These include a mixture of shorter, more factual articles and larger, multi-section articles tracing the development of the arts in major regions. There are articles on all subject areas in Medieval art including biographies of major artists, architects and patrons; countries, cities, and sites; cultures and styles (Anglo-Saxon art, Carolingian art, Coptic art, Early Christian art, Romanesque, Gothic, Insular art, Lombard art, Merovingian art, Ottonian art, and Viking art); ivories, books and illuminated manuscripts, metalwork, architecture, painting, tapestries, sculpture, mosaics, reliquaries, and more. Part of the acclaimed Grove Art family of print encyclopedias, The Grove Encyclopedia of Medieval Art and Architecture is lavishly illustrated with more than 460 halftones and 170 color plates. The 6 volumes are organized into a cohesive A-Z format, with a comprehensive index.
